

109 Glenwood Blvd.,

Schenectady, N.Y.,

Nov. 3, 1922.

My dear Connerford:

Yours of Oct. 29th and Nov. 1st were duly received, and with the former your 1891 ~~Electrical Engineer~~ "Edisonia" article, which will be returned shortly. I found the 1887 Electrical World article in the 39th Street library.

About your just-issued "Forty Years": If a copy reaches me before my article for the C. & E. Review is finished, I have practically concluded to defer reading it until later, for fear so doing may change my regulator (am wound up), run me into unconscious plagiarism, etc. — Two men can't swim a river with limbs interlocked. You are now on the other bank — wish I was. My article cannot be of any special personal merit, for I am simply grinding out something to meet the exacting desires, as to complexion, of the Review management.

Wish I had, as do you, a farm to flee to, for isolated concentration of mind. Proth Mrs. Clarke and I dream about, and hanker after, such a refuge.

With many thanks for your helpful ways, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Chas. F. Clarke

T.C. Martin, Esq.
(Worthington), Ringville P.O.,
Mass.